Dear Dr. Rahman,

Thank you for your email. Congratulations on the acceptance of your title for Scopus.

The next step after a title has been accepted is to index content to Scopus. Several departments will have to process a new title before the indexing will start. It will therefore take up to several months before the content is visible in Scopus. Our Source Collection department is responsible for the final process of indexing. They will contact the publisher if necessary (e.g. when a title's content is not open accessible from the website).

I hope this clarifies the matter.

Best regards,
